to see "One of the Finest" can fully testify to this :- the magnificent Central Park scene, with all its magnificent on Fifth Avenue, with the beautiful St.

Patrick's Cathedral in the distance, and the chime of bells playing the Christmas hymn. In the third act we come to the quiet home of John Mishler, on Hester Street: a simple but beautiful scene.

Then again we are transported to that beautiful Blackwell's Island, East River, standing out in bold relief between those two great cities, New York and Brooklyn. In the twinkling of an eye we are carried back to the scene of so much bustle and excitement, Fall River Line,

Pier 28, North River: there we witness this scene occurs the wonderful and realistic rain storm; finally we are again brought back to the mansion uptown, and after an evening of laughter and en-transport so much scenery and handle
